

Join Our Festival Strategy Group!

We're looking for your involvement in exploring the future of Festival of the Sky.

Do you remember the festival's two very different iterations in 2019 and 2021? The first was a larger arts festival spanning a full weekend across different sites in Cleethorpes. In 2021, two performances of 'The Twilight Hour' by Periplum featured a local community cast and took place at Meridian Showground.

We're looking for individuals with diverse perspectives from across our local community to join a Festival Strategy Group. As a member of the group you'll work with event producers From the Fields to explore the potential future model and delivery of the Festival.

This is your chance to contribute your insights, ideas, and expertise to inform a visionary strategy that will bring creative inspiration and arts opportunity to Cleethorpes and the wider region.

Group members will be expected to come together in person and online over three meetings between February and May 2024 to participate in discussions, brainstorming sessions, and to offer opinions and feedback.

Who we are looking for:

If you're a local creative, cultural professional, youth and community representative please register your interest in joining the group. We welcome interest from individuals from all backgrounds and experiences with an interest in the future of arts and creativity in Cleethorpes.

If that sounds like you.....

Express your interest by completing the short form in this link by 9am on 5th February.
